AGRICULTURAL CREDIT

Farmers Home Administration loans are made only to applicants unable to obtain adequate credit from other sources at reasonable rates and terms.

Borrowers agree to obtain their credit from other lenders when they reach or regain a position where they can do so. Each year many borrowers graduate to other leaders.

Hunter P. Evans, County Supervisor of the local Farmers Home Administration office, also states that a part of their work involves credit counseling They strive to find the right kind of credit to fit the individual needs of deserving families.

Further details may be obtained from the Farmers Home Administration office located at Farmville. Mr. Evans also has part-time office hours at Appomattox at the ASC office on Tuesday mornings from 9:00 to 9:30 A. M.

SNOW DAMAGE TO SHRUBS CAN BE REDUCED BEFORE-HAND

The old adage that "A stitch in times saves nine" applies to snow damage to ornamental shrubs, says Dr. Paul L. Smeal, department of horticulture at Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

He says branches of ornamental plants which become laden with heavy snow can be easily broken by the excessive weight. To prevent this damage, tie together the tops of upright evergreens where there are multiple stems. After a snow storm shake or brush off the snow as possible. Wet snow of the kind followed by rain or sleet are especially damaging because of the increased weight. Twigs and limbs become increasingly brittle as the temperature falls. Be very off stems and branches. Prop up careful when trying to knock ice and snow from ice-laden branches.

When shoveling snow from the walk or driveway, be careful not to throw the snow on low ornamental plants. The extra weight of additional snow may cause the limbs to split. Carefully remove drifted snow that settles around the lower branches of shrubs.

Weak boxwood plants are particularly susceptible to snow damage. So be sure each year to thin boxwood so it can develop a strong framework. The pruning can be done any time of the year by removing weak and crowded branches in a spot where snow slides from roofs, etc., may damage them, to be damaged by snow can be protected by snow barrier. Hixburg

Hixburg, Dec. 28.- Dr. W. Twyman T. Williams completed his 12th year as the pastor of Walker's Presbyterian Church on September 3, and he held his last service there November 5. Dr. Williams held his last service at Appomattox Court House on Sunday, Dec. 24.

He is much beloved by his many friends, regardless of their denomination, or whether they are a church member or not.

During his pastorate the church at Hixburg increased in membership from 65 to 89. Three Sunday School rooms were built and furnished. An electric organ has been installed, and the sanctuary repainted and provided with handsome drapes behind the pulpit, and venetian blinds for the windows.

Dr. Williams is widely known for his visits to the sick and troubled, and will be greatly missed by this neighborhood. He will live with his son in Lexington.

An enjoyable time was had in Pamplin Thursday, Dec. 14, when 14 members of the Pamplin Home Demonstration Club met in the home of Mrs. Jim Williams.

The dining room was attractively decorated for Christmas. Miss Frances Hatcher, County Home Agent, demonstrated Christmas decorations and wrappings. After the cover dish luncheon, the ladies held a talkfest with good fellowship.

Miss Bessie Irving is spending her Christmas in Richmond with her sister, Mrs. Guy Harrison.

Mrs. Jim Carson had a luncheon for Miss Anne Martin, bride-elect, on Thursday.

Mr. Tom Phil Mathews, of Richmond visited Miss Maggie Hix on Wednesday. He is still collecting data on the Mathews family.

Mr. J. S. Hix, of Thomasville, North Carolina, was the guest of Miss Maggie Hix from Monday until Wednesday.

Mrs. Rob Martin, who underwent surgery at Virginia Baptist Hospital on Tuesday, is reported to be getting along nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Covington attended the funeral of her aunt, Mrs. Robert Morris on Saturday, at New Hope Baptist Church.

Miss Luella Martin, a student at Marion College, came home on Friday, Dec. 15. She will stay until January 2.

Patrick Lair, Jr., has completed his course in blacksmithing at Michigan State University.He came home Monday, Dec. 18.

Mike Lair, a student at Bluefield College, arrived home on December 15, for his vacation until January 3.

Visiting Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Alley are Miss Mamie Moses, of Plainsville, North Carolina, and Mrs. Lee Green, of Rehobath, Mass. Also visiting in the same home are Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Alley, of Norfolk.

Mr. Ed McPhillips had the flu, and was sick all last week. He is some better now.

AVOID GARDENING ERRORS DURING NEXT SEASON

Lots of people poke fun at the armchair gardener - but he's not so dumb if he spends his time planning next season's garden, says F. H. Scott of the horticulture department at Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

It's time now for the gardener to be asking himself some questions For instance, what kinds and what amounts of vegetable seeds will be needed The gardener should know the dimensions of the garden and the amount of space to be devoted to each variety of vegetable.

Is the garden clean of trash, old plant refuse, etc? It is best to burn diseased plants in the fall. Also burn plants heavily infested with insects. If you do not do this you may have a mess to clean up before planting this spring.

Is the garden soil loamy and will it work easily in the spring? Nearly any garden soil can be improved in texture by working into it, at least six weeks before planting, a green manure crop, barnyard manure or large quantities of compost. If there is no green manure crop this year, it is not too late to apply manure or compost to the garden.
